

City of Yokohama Adjusted Benefit

Benefit for Persons Projected to Not Fully Covered by the Flat-amount Cut of Personal Income Tax

In regards to the flat-amount cut to be applied to income tax and personal residence tax levy for FY2024, the City of Yokohama will pay an amount rounded up to the nearest 10,000 yen for the amount not covered by the flat-amount cut to persons projected to be not fully covered the flat-amount cut for personal income tax (the allowed flat-amount cut exceeds your estimated income tax amount*¹ for FY2024 or your personal resident tax levy amount for FY2024).

*1: Amount estimated based on income amount, etc. used to estimate the personal resident tax as of June 3.

Allowed flat-amount cut

Portion of income taxes = 30,000 yen × number of persons subject to tax cut

Portion of personal resident tax levy = 10,000 yen × number of persons subject to tax cut

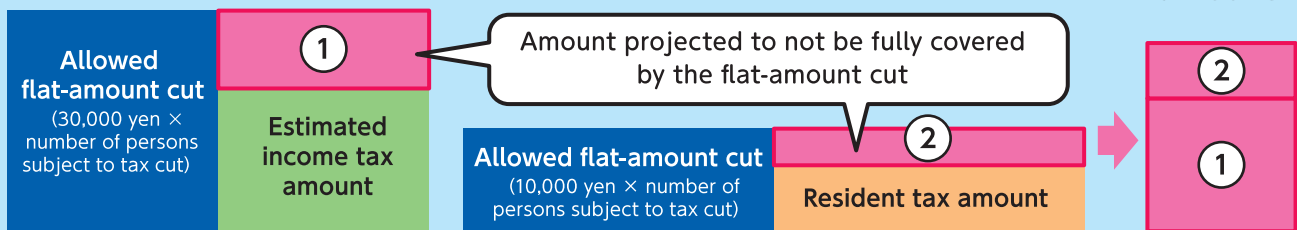

The number of persons subject to tax cut refers to the individual required to pay income taxes + deduction-eligible spouse + dependent family (including dependent family members under age 16)
However, this excludes persons residing overseas.

Points of Attention

If the Flat-amount Cut Amount is changed and it causes the insufficiency of benefits, then no adjustment will be conducted in FY2024, but the city plans to issue a benefit to cover any insufficient amount during FY2025. Details will be provided on the City of Yokohama website, etc. as information is received from the government.

Examples of cases resulting in insufficient adjusted benefit amount

- When there is a change in income or deductions, etc. for FY2023
- When the flat-amount cut cannot be made based on the income tax amount and personal resident tax levy amount after applying a housing loan deduction and other tax deductions
- When your family gave birth to a child during FY2024 resulting in an increase in dependent family members
